Hughes Pays Tribute to President Monroe

MONROE DOCTRINE IS BASIC POLICY, ASSERTS HUGHES

Secretary of State Declares Foreign Attitude Today Squares With Old Doctrine.

U. S. WILL MAINTAIN INDEPENDENT STAND

Monroe's Statement Not Merely Negative in Principles of Non-Intervention and Control.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Philadelphia, November 30.—American foreign policy today, whether with relation to conditions in Europe, Latin-America or the Pacific, squares consistently with the Monroe doctrine, Secretary Hughes said in an address here tonight before the American Academy of Political and Social Science gathered here in celebration of the centenary of the doctrine.

With the declaration as his text, the secretary delivered a comprehensive restatement of the position of the United States toward the European tangle, the Far East, and Latin-America. He said the American nation would rather bear such ills as might result from its present policy toward Europe than "suffer the greater evils which would follow the sacrifice of our independent position," reasserted the adherence of this government to the principles of peace in the Pacific laid down by the arms conference, and set forth nine propositions which he said should govern relations with the sister republics of the western hemisphere.

Is Essential Policy. All of these policies, Mr. Hughes asserted, accorded entirely with the Monroe doctrine, which "remains an essential policy to be applied whenever any emergency may arise requiring its application."

"It would not be entirely correct," he continued, "to say that the doctrine is merely negative. . . . The doctrine is a principle of exclusion. Both with reference to the declaration as to non-intervention and to that as to extension of territorial control, it aims directly at the exclusion of intervention by non-American powers. . . . The principle of exclusion embodies a policy of self-defense on the part of the United States; it is a policy set up and applied by the United States."

Taking up the relationship between American policy toward Europe and the Monroe doctrine, he said:

"We entered the great war, not violating our tradition, for the cause of liberty itself was at stake. We have emerged from the war with the same

MEN WITH DOGS SEARCH FOR TOT LOST IN SWAMP

Clearwater, Fla., November 30.—The 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lee, of Tarpon Springs, is lost in the wilds of woodland and swamp in the Sootie river section. At noon today a telephone message from Tarpon Springs asked for all the men and dogs available to help in the search. Twenty-five men have gone up with bird dogs. Reports from that section say the national guard from Brooksville and Tarpon Springs searched all last night and followed the tracks of the child for about 10 miles when it was lost under a rain about 3 o'clock this morning.

ALLIES BELIEVE U. S. WILL ACCEPT SURVEY PROPOSAL

Reparations Commission Names Two Committees for Work—Scope of Inquiry Unlimited.

Paris, November 30.—Allied circles believe the reparations commission by its action today paved the way for the United States to participate in an expert examination of Germany's position. The commission decided to appoint two expert committees, one to examine means of balancing Germany's budget and stabilizing her finances and the other to look into the question of the capital exported from Germany and devise ways of getting it back.

The resolution appointing the committees mentions no limitations to the scope of their inquiry further than to state that it will be held under the terms of article 234 of the treaty of Versailles. The allied representatives believe that under these circumstances the American government may find the latitude given the committees sufficient to afford all the necessary opportunity for useful work.

Adoption of the resolution, which was by unanimous vote, was the result of a compromise in which both the French and British made concessions, and the text was drawn up after a long consultation in such a way as to allow them to withdraw from the uncompromising attitudes previously maintained without giving

SHOALS, WEEVILS ARE OBJECTIVES OF COTTON BLOC

Senator Harris, Georgia, Chosen Chairman of Dixie Program Committee for Congress.

WOULD TEAR TARIFF FROM WEEVIL POISON

Development of Muscle Shoals To Produce Cheap Nitrates To Be Pushed by Solons.

Washington, November 30.—(Special.)—Provision for developing Muscle Shoals so that cheap nitrates can be produced for southern farmers and transfer of calcium arsenate, boll weevil eradicator, to the free list, are the two measures on which southern members will center their attention in the congress which opens Monday.

This legislative program is to be presented to the "cotton bloc" at a meeting to be held in the capitol Saturday morning and is expected to be unanimously approved.

About 60 southern members of congress, both senators and representatives, gathered in a general conference Friday at the capitol and discussed measures for farm relief. Senator Harris, of Georgia, is on the special committee which was appointed to draft the legislative program of the bloc, which will be formally presented to the meeting Saturday.

Other members of the committee were: Representative Black, of Texas, chairman; Representative Wilson, Louisiana; Lowrey, Mississippi, and Driver, Arkansas.

Representatives of the federal reserve board, the bureau of mines and the commerce department took part in the discussion Friday.

Vinson Bill Ready. Representative Vinson, of Georgia, has already prepared a bill providing for the transfer of calcium arsenate from the dutiable to the free list, which has received general approval. Experts from the government departments who were present concurred in the necessity of southern farmers being able to obtain a boll weevil eradicator cheaply. Transfer of calcium arsenate to the free list will run down the price, as it will produce foreign competition.

Senator Harris, of Georgia, has been actively engaged in the campaign to transfer calcium arsenate to the free list, and has taken the matter up with President Coolidge.

The resolution on Muscle Shoals to be presented Saturday will not specify the Ford offer, it was learned, but will urge the necessity of some method of development so that nitrates for fertilizer can be produced cheaply.

Many southern members, however, are in accord with the plan of Representative Madden, of Illinois, providing for building an additional steam power plant near Muscle Shoals to take the place of the Gorgas plant which was recently sold to the Alabama Power company, and which Ford claimed was essential to the development he planned there.

JUDGE O. K. S. ROD USED BY TEACHER ON UNRULY PUPIL

Anniston, Ala., November 30.—This old stuff of hiding the paddle and making gangsters or bootleggers of the children was a fine thought in mid-Victorian days but in 1923 it is the bunk, Mrs. Annie Williamson, of White Plains, near here believes.

So she gave Miss Cleo Mills, a pretty young school teacher, a sound whipping because the rod was applied too freely to a son of Mrs. Williamson who engaged in a fist fight in the county school.

Judge Thomas W. Coleman Friday ruled that Miss Mills was justified in her act and fined the mother $50 and costs.

INCOME TAX BILL CHANGES FAVORED BY MANY SOLONS

Business Men and State Officials Urge Replacing of "Net Income" in Tax Reform Measure.

When the legislature reconvenes Monday after its Thanksgiving recess, it now appears that sentiment in favor of replacing the limitation of "net incomes" in the Lanford income tax bill will be strong enough to carry its point. Certainly, opinion outside of the legislature, among individuals, business men and state officials generally, seemed to be almost unanimously in favor of putting the word "net" back in the measure.

One prominent state official pointed out Friday that, while the bill as passed by the house did not carry the description "gross income," nevertheless its action in striking the word "net" would naturally be construed as favorable to a tax on gross incomes, which has been universally condemned as unfair and, in most instances, tantamount to confiscation.

Everyday Affected. This same official also declared that, while the great part of the outcry against the house amendment had come from business men, it would also very vitally affect the small individual, the wage-earner, salaried people and others, inasmuch as the lack of exemptions in the constitution made it possible for any future assembly to levy a five per cent. tax on the gross income of any individual—which would work a great hardship on many people. For instance, under that interpretation, a man earning two thousand dollars annually would have to pay the state one hundred dollars in taxes, regardless of the size of his family or other obligations.

Supporters of the house amendment pointed out that the word "net" was not included in the federal constitutional provision for an income tax, but the other side counters with the argument that the people as a whole keep a closer watch on the federal congress than on the state assembly, with the result that there is a stronger popular check against radical legislation in Washington. It is also pointed out that the fact that the corporations and big companies pay their federal income tax properly is ample reason for believing that they will pay the state just as honestly. In fact, it is declared, under the law the state has the right to check its own tax returns by those made to the federal government.

Revenue Collecting. First business before the house when it reconvenes will be the revenue collecting question. There are several bills before the house providing for a division of state government for the specific purpose of collecting delinquent taxes, the chief measures being the Ennis bill and the Milner bill. The former provides for a special revenue collecting department, with a commissioner of revenues and six deputies, while the latter puts the new office under the jurisdiction of the comptroller general.

When this matter is disposed of, the next item on the legislative program has not been worked out yet, senate, providing for an audit department. While the balance of the program has not been worked out yet, it is believed that an early debate will be held on the bill by Representative Stovall, of Elbert, to exempt new industries from state taxation for a given period of years.

The senate will at the same time take up the tax equalization repeal bill, which, as passed by the house, was amended by the senate finance committee, but which will reach the floor through minority report. The senate also has to take up the amendments placed upon the Lanford bill by the house.

SAYS ALLIES LED WAY IN EXCHANGE OF POPULATIONS

Julian Gillespie, One of U. S. Observers at Lausanne, Throws New Light on Migration.

TURKEY IS STRONGER THAN EVER, HE SAYS

Declares Country Won in Every Contest at Lausanne—Praises Mustafa Kemal Pasha.

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

An entirely new aspect on the "monstrous" Lausanne peace treaty and an interpretation of its clauses that differs widely from the commonly accepted version was given The Constitution Friday by Julian E. Gillespie, of the United States department of commerce, who was one of the four official American observers and the expert on trade relations at the famous international conference which brought to a close the war between Turkey and Greece and which restored peace in the Near East.

That the allied powers and not the Turks demanded the inclusion of the clause providing for the exchange of populations, the clause which has led to the exchange of millions of people, European and American statesmen denounced the treaty as unjust and as a setback to civilization, was one of the significant statements made by Mr. Gillespie in the course of an interview.

He also stated that Turkey must be reckoned with in the future as one of the big powers whose finances are in better shape than any other European country, with the possible exception of the British empire.

Not a Signatory. Mr. Gillespie in the first place cleared up the mistaken idea which has met with common acceptance in the United States that America was a signatory to the Lausanne treaty.

"The United States never declared war on Turkey in 1917. There was only a rupture in diplomatic relations. As there was no war there could be no peace conference between the United States and Turkey. We were invited to attend the peace treaty as observers. It must not be forgotten that the United States in the official documents is not referred to as an allied but as an associate power. We were invited to Lausanne to give an expression of opinion on any matters which might prove detrimental or prejudicial to the interests of the United States government."

"After the treaty was signed, by that I mean the treaty which terminated the war between Greece and Turkey, in which Great Britain and France were interested parties, we concluded an agreement with the same Turkish delegates, but that was merely a commercial convention."

Aid of Governor Asked in Probe Of Fox's Record

Walker Says He Is Confident Texas Governor Will Give Assistance.

Efforts of the prosecution to obtain records of the life of Philip E. Fox before he is placed on trial December 12 for the murder of Captain William S. Cohn reached high state officials Friday when Solicitor John A. Boykin appealed to Governor Clifford Walker for assistance in obtaining the records.

Governor Walker answered the request with an indirect letter to the Texas governor, addressing the letter to Solicitor Boykin, who in turn is expected to use this authority in asking Governor Neff to use his official

WOMAN IS GIVEN VERDICT OF $5,600 FOR FALSE ARREST

A verdict of $5,600 was awarded Friday in Fulton superior court, Judge Ellis' section, to Mrs. Bertha E. Humphries, of 52 West Peachtree street, against the McClure Tea-Cont company, the case growing out of alleged charges of theft against Mrs. Humphries and false arrest.

This is the second time the case has come up for trial in local courts, a jury last June awarding Mrs. Humphries a verdict of $2,000. The defendants appealed this decision and a new trial was granted, the jury Friday sustaining the first verdict and awarding an additional $3,600.

Three years ago, on November 30, 1920, Mrs. Humphries claims, she was humiliated by being accused of theft in the store of the McClure company by employees of the store and a woman detective employed by the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association.

U. S. DRY OFFICERS RAID "BARROOM" IN HEART OF CITY

Police Declare Place Was Conducted by "Red" Slaton, Who Has Not Been Captured.

A completely equipped "barroom" at 74 1/2 Houston street, with a varied assortment of "white" liquor, was raided by federal prohibition enforcement officers headed by Agent John R. Barclay, city detectives and deputy sheriffs late Friday afternoon.

The officers placed under arrest Hugh Worthy, an 18-year-old youth, who, they claim, was installed in the place as "bartender," and confiscated a large quantity of whisky. The place was conducted, officers claim, by "Red" Slaton, who escaped. The search for Slaton was continued by the detectives, but late Friday night he had not been apprehended.

For several months both prohibition officers and local police have been engaged in watching the place. The interior of the barroom was barricaded to prevent intrusion and doors leading to the main room were securely bolted.

Shortly after noon Friday officers were informed that a large shipment of liquor would be delivered in several automobiles during the afternoon. A search warrant was obtained and the place raided. The cars used in the delivery of the contraband had evidently left their cargo, and driven away before the officers arrived.

Worthy, who told the officers that he was 18 years of age, admitted that he was in charge of the place, but declined to reveal the name of the owner or his employer. Several "customers" who were in the room to purchase drinks, they claimed, were allowed to go, but their names were obtained. They will be called as witnesses.

"From the appearance of the place," declared Agent Barclay, "it would seem that the barroom did an unusually large amount of business on every day."

"We have been watching this place for several months in an effort to catch 'Red' Slaton, who was the proprietor of the establishment, but we never succeeded in finding any evidence of whisky on previous raids."

"Slaton was evidently tipped off that the raid was planned, for he was not there when we arrived, nor were we able to locate him."

Figures Fail To Give Atlanta Credit for Real Population.

Figures issued by the United States government showing Atlanta ranking high in death rate among other cities of the United States will be the basis of a vigorous fight by Atlanta officials in an effort to have the city's population recorded correctly on the census records.

Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, voiced the first protest against the mortality figures in a statement Friday, declaring that he will ask the help of city, county and state officials and Georgia senators and congressmen in getting the census figures adjusted.

"Mortality statistics issued by the government are based on the number of deaths to the thousand of population and census reports are used to estimate the number of thousands of

PROGRESSIVE BLOC FIRES ULTIMATUM AT G. O. P. CHIEFS

Threatens Delay in House Organization and Fight on Gillette If Demands Refused.

PRICE OF PEACE HAS MANY ANGLES

Democrats Demand Seven Places for Minority on Each Senate Committee as Right.

Washington, November 30.—On the eve of the formal conference of house and senate republicans, members of the house progressive bloc took a firm stand today for concessions with an open threat of blocking organization unless a compromise is reached. The progressive bloc of the senate failed to hold a meeting and its attitude as to an organization fight in the senate still is undetermined.

After an all-day conference house progressives issued a formal statement embodying their demands both as to modification of house rules and legislation. Their legislative program was outlined as follows:

Has Long Program. Equalization of taxes by a reduction of 25 per cent in tax on earned incomes; reduction of present normal tax of 4 per cent to 2 per cent and the normal tax of 5 per cent to 4 per cent. Maintenance of the surtax at the present maximum of 50 per cent.

Limitation of capital losses to 12 1/2 per cent of the loss; limitation of deductions from gross incomes for interest paid and for losses not of a business character; adoption of the British and French rates of inheritance tax of 40 per cent on the larger inheritances; a gift tax, with reasonable exemptions, up to a maximum of 25 per cent, a moderate tax on undistributed profits; restoration of tax on forms of excess profits tax and repeal of the so-called nuisance and amusement taxes.

For Soldier Bonus. Abolition of tax exempt securities. A soldier bonus, to be raised mainly by a tax on large incomes, excess profits, and an increased inheritance tax.

Aid of disabled veterans. Amendment of the federal reserve act "to prevent arbitrary contraction of credit and to eliminate the existing discrimination between banks."

Repeal or amendment of the transportation act so as to secure lower freight rates and "to eliminate guaranteed dividends to favored classes."

Government control of necessities of life when necessary to prevent profiteering in coal, oil, sugar and other necessities.

WHITEY DIAMOND QUAILS AT PART IN GUNMEN CHASE

Master Mind of Brooklyn Holdup-Murder Has No Desire To Find 15-Notch Killer.

HE WARNS DETECTIVES TO LOOK OUT FOR LEAD

First Plan of Bank Robbery Was To Grab Loot Totalling $750,000, Police Declare.

New York, November 30.—From an isolated cell in one of Manhattan's numerous jails, Morris ("Whitey") Diamond, with his tongue in his cheek, directed the police hunt Friday night for the actual slayers of the two West End bank messengers, in New York's greatest gang expose.

"Look out for your hides when you tackle those birds," he told detectives. "They are the toughest gang you ever tangled with."

"This chief gazabo"—and Whitey named him—"already has 15 notches in his gun, and doesn't care who he shoots."

"He handles a revolver like most men handle a fountain pen. You'll never snag him without a fight. He'd just as lief shoot it out with you as go to the chair."

Rush for Trials. Whitey astonished police with graphic descriptions of four cold-blooded murders and a score of robberies which he attributed to the 15-notch gunman. His questioners were convinced he has inside information, for he recited details that dovetailed nicely with facts the police have never published about these crimes. His story changed their belief that Whitey was simply trying to scare them.

When Whitey stopped talking, more than a score of detectives left for 20 cities in the United States and Canada. Thanks to Whitey, they knew not only the names of their quarry, but their sweethearts' and relatives' addresses, their preferences in matters of food and amusement, and the character of the cover they would be likely to seek.

But the police don't believe Whitey implicitly, so they did not neglect the chance that the desperadoes are lurking under their noses, right here in Manhattan.

Whitey Gets White. Whitey turned pale and momentarily took his tongue out of his cheek when detectives invited him to come along on a tour of visits to gunmen's hangouts in the lower east side, to look for the trio he says shot William S. Barlow, and William H. McLaughlin two weeks ago.

"Not me," said Whitey, with something like a whine in his voice. His eyes were popping. "I don't want to be anywhere near that 15-notcher when he starts shooting. He wouldn't stop at shooting me right in front of you. Do you want to sentence me to death without a trial?"

The police invaded the east side without Whitey. Corpses of cops were thrown around whole blocks of tenements where the trio nominated

COMMISSIONER PLANS TO PURIFY N. Y. STAGE

New York, November 30.—Concerted action by seven agencies now acting independently to stop indecency on the New York stage is sought by the police play investigating committee. In an attempt to organize all the agencies into one body, Deputy Police Commissioner Leach, chairman of the committee, has called a meeting of the groups for next week.

“Our investigation,” said Commissioner Leach, “has proved to us that the stage is being corrupted this season to an unprecedented extent with its nude revues and obscene dramas. With all the organizations working independently to correct this evil we will not make much progress. Unified, however, I believe, we can accomplish something in a hurry.”

The organization engaged in a campaign for a cleaner stage are the police committee, the social service commission of the Episcopal church, the New York Federation of Churches, the play jury committee of theatrical interests, the Methodist Episcopal board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, the young committee of the Society for the Prevention of Crime and the Society for the Suppression of Vice.

STAYTON URGES PROBE OF WET, DRY BODIES

Washington, November 30.—Congressional investigation of all organizations either supporting or opposing the prohibition laws was urged today in a statement by W. H. Stayton, head of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Mr. Stayton expressed the hope that Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, who has announced he will ask an investigation of the Anti-Saloon league, will widen the scope of his resolution to include all bodies which have taken sides in the prohibition issue.

TWO BIG HIGHWAY PROJECTS ARE LET

Concrete Bridge Will Be Erected at Cost of $7,016.24—St. Mary's River Bridge Discussed.

Contracts for two new road projects, one a bridge and the other a stretch of surfaced highway, were let on Friday by the state highway board, which is now in regular monthly session at the capitol.

A reinforced concrete bridge on the Hartwell-Royton road, in Hart county, will be built by Scott-Chambers & Co., of West Point, at a total cost of $7,016.24. The road to be built is in Hall county and runs from Lula to the Hall-Habersham county line. It will be 4.47 miles in length and will be constructed by Dunn & Woodall at a cost of $22,720.64. This latter contract was awarded subject to the approval of the county commissioners of Hall county.

It was decided by the highway board that Chairman John N. Holder should be authorized to ask permission of congress to build a bridge across the St. Mary's river near Kingdon, on the Georgia-Florida boundary line. This action was taken after Florida had agreed to a similar step. The board agreed to pay half the cost of the bridge. Chairman Holder announced that he will open negotiations on this matter at once.

Florida has already set aside the sum of $100,000 to cover its half of the cost of this bridge, according to H. B. Phillips, chairman of the Florida highway commission, who appeared before the Georgia board on Friday. The bridge will greatly shorten the coastal route to Florida, he said. Delegations from several counties through which the Florida highway runs also appeared to urge that the bridge be built.

Protests were also heard on Friday from several counties against the highway board's plan to restrict the state, making only six highway districts in place of eleven, as at present. The Waycross Chamber of Commerce, Lions club and Kiwanis club all sent representatives to protest against the proposal to remove district headquarters from Waycross to Albany, as the new plan provides.

SAYS ALLIES LED WAY IN EXCHANGE

ing up before the senate for ratification and I expect I will be called before the senate committee on foreign affairs next week.

"This convention meant that we entered into agreement of commerce and amity with Turkey and practically restored diplomatic relations.

Population Exchange. "Is the exchange of populations, the return of Christian Greeks from Thrace to Greece and the return of Mohammedans from former Greek territory to Anatolia really a hardship and a monstrous provision?" he was asked.

"From a humanitarian standpoint it is," replied Mr. Gillespie. "To have whole families and settlements uprooted and sent hundreds of miles across the sea cannot be considered anything else.

"From which power did the exchange of populations provision emanate?"

"From the allied powers," came the answer.

Mr. Gillespie wanted the exchange of populations included in the peace treaty which brought to an end the second Balkan war of 1913. It was signed by the minister of Greece under Constantine, but that clause was never put into the treaty. When at the Lausanne conference the subject was broached, the Turkish naturally grabbed at the chance.

"Do you agree with Mr. Lloyd George, who has called the Lausanne treaty a disgrace to the dignity of the British empire and the greatest Turkish victory since the capture of Constantinople by Mohammed the Conqueror?"

"I agree with the latter declaration. It would not be tactful for me to comment on the work of Lord Curzon, the British minister plenipotentiary at the conference, but I will admit that it is a great Turkish victory."

Stronger Than Ever. "Turkey is stronger today in Europe than she ever was before. It seems to me that the present British government has had a change of policy in regard to the Turk. Lord George seemed to have been an adherent of the old Gladstone policy of curbing the Turk out of Europe. Lord Curzon was his successor, so he must have agreed with him. But since the Bonar Law premiership and the premiership of the present British government, the policy has been reversed. Lord Curzon still foreign minister, so he must have undergone a change of heart."

His assistant, Mr. H. J. Norton, thought that the present British policy was a return to the Disraeli program of making Turkey a strong power in Europe as a buffer state between the Russian empire and the Indian possessions of England.

It is interesting to note that Turkey had benefited tremendously by the Lausanne treaty. Mr. Gillespie backed up with the argument that the Turks although they had lost their greatest state territory are now a national entity with complete sovereignty over the peoples within the domains of the former Ottoman empire.

What Turks Gained. The loss of Palestine, Syria, Arabia and Mesopotamia, countries conquered by British armies was accepted by the Turks, but in return for that they managed to get away with such things as the treaty of Lausanne, the waiving of reparations, a cancellation of the whole Turkish debt to Austria and Germany, her allies in the great war, and that he thought that the present British policy was a return to the Disraeli program of making Turkey a strong power in Europe as a buffer state between the Russian empire and the Indian possessions of England.

Simple Program Offered By Geraldine Farrar

Although objections had been raised to the appearance in church auditoriums of Geraldine Farrar, famous grand opera star, a crowd of approximately 2,000 of her admirers gathered at the auditorium last night and gave her a warm welcome. The program she gave was one which would have been entirely suitable for a church social. Not until after she finished the set program, not until she had concluded the printed list did we really catch a glimpse of the old Farrar. Of course, she sang with a voice that belongs only to Farrar. There can only be one voice with that rich throaty voluptuousness to its lower tones, with that clear timbre of its higher notes.

The program she had chosen, however, was made up of that type of song which appeals by its simplicity, by its studied artlessness and by its brevity. Those numbers, in short, which are best described by quoting the feminine portion of the audience. They were "cute," and they were "daring."

However, by the mark, they were not Farrar. Not the Farrar we learned to expect, to rave over and to cheer in grand opera.

Then she finished the program. The long dress, with its skirts reaching to the ground, swept out in the final bow after her concluding song. The audience called and called and called again for an encore. She responded.

Then there came from the wings the old Farrar. That stately dress with its swaying whorls and hidden beneath a great, blazing shawl. "Carmen," neighbor whispered to neighbor.

Her right hand sought her hip. The left snapped into the air before her dancing eyes. The teasing, tantalizing strains of the "Habenera" number floated from her lips.

"Gerry" was back on the auditorium stage once more. But, the pity of it, Gerry stayed. The number was finished, and after two or three bows, neither Farrar nor Gerry would come back again and the audience had to go home, of course, unsatisfied.

Next time Farrar's supporting artists contributed no small part to the success of the program. Joseph Malkin, cellist, took several encores, as did Henry Weldon, basso. Incidentally, those who slipped out after the conclusion of the Farrar portion of the program missed one of the most delightful items of all, in Mr. Weldon's "Come to the Fair." He has one of those robust bass voices which make you think of Falstaff, merry men, great gobs of old October ale, and a jolly abbot in the corner of the tap room.

Personally, I can always listen to Farrar, or either of her assisting artists, with pleasure, but I do hope that next time she comes the place for her concert will be decided far enough in advance to prevent surroundings from influencing the program, quite so much. For, frankly, I enjoy a little more of the old Gerry, with the high stock cleared with eggs to make you think of constantly dull a touch of impishness in her voice, to the demure person who sang so correctly in "Carmen."

Friday night. That is, the program, and five minutes of "Carmen" truly, rather a small portion to reward one for sitting through an hour of a prim Miss Farrar.

RALPH T. JONES.

TEACHERS' CHECKS ARE READY TODAY

More than 1,000 Atlanta school teachers will draw their November pay this morning at the business office of the school department in city hall just as if the school board had a million dollars of spare change.

All teachers' checks will be ready for distribution this morning under the arrangement made between the school board of the Citizens and Southern bank. W. V. Crowley, vice president of the bank, informed the department Friday that the checks would be delivered promptly.

All school principals have been asked to be present to assist in distribution of checks. They will be cashed by the bank promptly on presentation at the tellers' windows at any of the several offices in Atlanta.

The checks were made out in a special form whereby the endorsement will constitute an assignment to the bank of the teachers' claim against the city for their November salary. About $165,000 is to be paid out under this arrangement for November. December salaries will be paid in the same way, probably about December 20.

BANDIT DIRECTS MAN HUNT FROM CELL

by Whitey as the actual trigger man and whose rogues' gallery photographs have been identified by eyewitnesses of the holdup and murder. "At a late hour this search was still in progress, police combing every room in the dark gang warrens, and not neglecting the roofs and basements.

Tipped Bank Teller. The sextet of bank robbers for the bank messengers' murders were in cells Friday and Joseph Diamond and Tony Pantano were held for murder and robbery. Mike Mezzano, Charles Luciani and Sam Casabianca, held at present under $50,000 bond as material witnesses, may face more serious charges later.

Police amazement grows hourly at the proportions of the plot which ended in the holdup and murder. Originally it was planned to rob the West End bank of $750,000. This was modified, but police say it was significant that the most desperate gangster in New York, ready to kill for any reasonable wage, was hired to shoot Barlow and McLaughlin down without a chance. This gangster also drove the duplicate Cadillac sedan.

"Never tip a bank teller" is one of the lessons Whitey and Joe Diamond may have learned from their recent experience. They tried to get Cordner, a Cleveland bank teller, $12 for changing some of the loot into more convenient denominations. Friday he identified pictures. The diamonds had been trailed from Philadelphia.

MONROE DOCTRINE IS BASIC POLICY

general aims that we had before we went in. Though voters, we have sought neither territory nor general reparations. Our people have borne their own burdens and in large part are bearing the burdens of others. "We are not seeking to dictate to Europe nor to deprive any one of rights, but we do desire peace and economic recuperation in Europe. "We contributed our arms in the interest of liberty and to destroy the menace of an autocratic power, but not to secure the economic prostration of a vanquished people. We have the deepest sympathy with the people of France, we warmly cherish their ancient friendship. We desire to see France prosperous and secure, with her wounds healed and her just demands satisfied. We desire to see a united and prosperous Germany, with a will to peace, making amends to the full extent of her power and obtaining the appropriate rewards of her labor and skill. We wish to see an end to the waste of military efforts and the expense of the burden of unproductive expenditures. We wish to see the fires of hatred quenched.

Still Holds to Principle. "It is because of these earnest desires that we have hoped, as we stated in the recent communication to the British cabinet, that the solution of the present grave problems would be sought in fair and comprehensive inquiry in which all interested might participate and which would be inspired by the determination to find means to restore the productive activities through which alone reparations can be paid, and to give opportunity for the reasonable contentment and amicable relations of industrious people through which alone peace and security can be assured.

"The bitter controversy which followed the war showed with what tenacity we still hold to the principle of not meddling in the political strife of Europe. It is true that the spread of democratic ideas and the resulting change in governments have removed the danger of organized effort to extend to this continent the European 'political system' of 100 years ago. But Europe still has a set of primary interests which we do not wish to see divergent national aims and policies in peace.

Old View Intact. "It is not that our interests may not be affected injuriously by such controversies. That was true in the days of Washington, Jefferson and Monroe. But it was, despite such injuries, the abiding conviction that we had better bear these ills than suffer the greater evils which would follow the sacrifice of our independent position. We still hold to that view.

"The preponderant thought among us undoubtedly is that our influence should not be increased by pooling it. The influence that is due to our detachment and impartiality could not be maintained if we should substitute the role of a partisan in European quarrels.

"But when all is said there is still no doubt of our desire to be helpful in every practicable way consistent with our independence and general aims. The difficulties which beset Europe have their causes within Europe and in no way affect our policy or ours.

Summary of Attitude. "Generally, our policies toward Europe may thus be summarized: We are still opposed to alliances. We use to commit ourselves in advance with respect to the elements of the power of the United States in unthought contingencies. We reserve our judgment to act upon occasion as our sense of duty permits. We are opposed to discriminations against our nationals. We ask fair and equal opportunities in mandated territories as they were acquired by the allies through war aid. We desire to cooperate according to our historic policy in the peaceful settlement of international disputes which embrace the policy of judicial settlement of such questions.

As are justifiable. It is our purpose to cooperate in those varied humanitarian efforts which aim to minimize or prevent those evils which can be met adequately only by community of action.

No Inconsistency. "In short, our cooperation as an independent state in the furtherance of the aims of peace and justice has always been and still is a distinctive feature of our policy.

United States Policy. "So far as the Pacific and Far East, the United States has developed the policy of (1) the open door, (2) the maintenance of the integrity of China, (3) cooperation with other powers in the declaration of common principles, (4) cooperation with other powers by conference and consultation, (5) cooperation with other powers by limitation of naval armament and (6) the limitation of fortifications and naval bases. "These policies, declared all these years, were entirely consistent with the policy of Monroe.

Nine Affirmative Policies. "The nine affirmative policies of the United States enumerated by the secretary as a 'fitting complement' to the Monroe doctrine were: "First—"We recognize the equality of all nations before the law and their equal rights under the law of nations." "Second—"We have no policy of aggression; we do not support aggression by others; we are opposed to aggression by any one of the Latin-American republics upon any other." "Third—"States have duties as well as rights, among these obligations is the duty of each state to respect the rights of citizens of other states which have been acquired within its jurisdiction in accordance with its laws. A confiscatory policy... strikes at the foundations of international law and is incompatible with the Monroe doctrine." "Fourth—"It is the policy of this government to make available its friendly assistance to promote stability in those of our sister republics which are especially afflicted with disturbed conditions involving their own peace and that of their neighbors. We are not aiming at control but endeavoring to establish self-control. We are not seeking to set up our territory or to impose our rule upon other countries." "Fifth—"With respect to the Latin-American republics, it is our policy not only to seek to adjust any differences that may arise in our own intercourse but... to extend our good offices to the end that any controversy they may have with each other may be amicably composed." "Sixth—"This government has sought to encourage the making of agreements for the limitation of armaments." "Seventh—"The policies which have been described are not to secure peace as an end in itself, but... to open the way to a mutually helpful cooperation." "Eighth—"The United States is seeking unconditional most favored nation treatment in customs matters." "Ninth—"This section of Mr. Hughes devoted to 'special policies of highest importance to the United States,' as follows: "We have established a waterway between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans—the Panama Canal. Apart from obvious economic considerations, the adequate protection of this canal—its complete immunity from any adverse control—is essential to our peace and security. In view of all circumstances to safeguard the Panama Canal. We could not afford to tolerate any other waterway that might be built between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Disturbances in the Caribbean region are therefore of special interest to us not for the purpose of seeking control over others but of being assured that our own safety is free from menace.

"With respect to Cuba, we have the special interests arising from our treaty and our part in the securing of her independence. It is our desire to see her independence not weakened but safeguarded and her stability and prosperity assured. Our friendly advice and aid are always available to that end."

progressive bloc, made chairman of that committee in place of Senator Cummins, of Iowa.

Democrats Demand Seven Places. Committee assignments for Senators Shipstead and Johnson, the two Minnesota farmer-labor members, is another problem to iron out in the matter of the organization of the senate.

Democratic leaders are asking that they be given seven places on practically all of the senate committees. This request was the subject of a conference today between Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, the republican leader, and Senators Harrison, of Mississippi, and Swann, of Virginia, democrats. Minority leaders apparently are satisfied that their request will be granted but there is a suggestion that the republican organization, in order to make certain their control of the finance, interstate commerce and foreign relations committees will have 10 republican places on these committees to seven for the democrats.

Senate republicans will hold their party conference tomorrow for the selection of a leader and a whip. House republicans also will meet tomorrow to elect a leader and renominate Speaker Gillett. The conference will also discuss the ratification of the new constitution to republicans on house committees.

At a caucus tomorrow night house democrats will formally elect support Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, for speaker and will elect democratic members of the judiciary committee who in turn will select democratic members of other committees.

Senate democrats will hold their organization conference Monday, immediately before congress convenes.

has directed the work, will present it to Mayor Sims for the city.

All city and county officials who have been concerned in the project and officers and members of all civic, social and patriotic organizations will take part in a mammoth procession which will move across the bridge on foot to a march selection by a brass band.

The order of the procession, as designated by the bond commission, will be as follows: "Order of Procession. Engineers and contractors; Mayor Sims, ex-Mayor Key, chairman of the bond commission and chairman of the viaduct and bridge committees; members of the bond commission; city council; city planning commission; county commissioners; representatives of terminal lines.

City departments—City hall, led by the chamber of commerce, including Presidents' club, city clubs, school associations, the association and the woman's clubs, the automobile association, the association of Kiwanis, the association of Elks, the association of Lions, the association of Traffic Bureau, Merchants' association, Manufacturers' association, Grocers' association, Retail Merchants' association, Atlanta Bar association, Medical association, Kappa Alpha Psi, Phi Kappa Phi association and all other civic and patriotic clubs.

The commission provided a revolving fund of $3,000 to facilitate the work of the committee. Ten Eyck Brown, supervising architect of the viaduct, is in charge, in completing the northeast junior high school and the negro junior high school, and the building, told the board that the buildings, contracts for which were thrown up by construction companies, would be completed without delay, more than the price specified in the contracts.

A new sewer from Prior to Courtland, on Edgewood avenue, was approved by the committee to cost $10,000.

ATLANTA TO ASK CHANGE IN RECORDS. Continued from First Page.

persons in a city," Dr. Kennedy explained. "Atlanta really has a population of between 250,000 and 275,000 persons while the United States census gives us credit for only 223,000. The result is that we get credit for deaths among 30,000 to 35,000 people who are not recognized on the census at all. This sends our 'death per thousand' count far out of proportion to actual facts."

"The same thing holds true in accident figures and number of cases of all contagious diseases and gives the world an entirely untrue impression of Atlanta conditions. "Even as it is, Atlanta holds a fair position on the government reports as a safe and healthy city, but that doesn't satisfy me at all and I don't believe it satisfies anyone else who is interested in Atlanta. We want Atlanta to get credit for what she actually deserves, and that will be a great deal better than she is getting."

Government census figures for 1923 are based on the actual count made in 1920 plus an estimate of increase figured from the rate of increase made during the 10-year period from 1910 to 1920.

Atlanta, according to school and water department figures, has grown faster since 1923 than it has ever grown before in its history, much faster than during the period of government estimates of increase are based. Both departments, working separately from different sources, have reached approximately the same estimate of the total population of Atlanta, placing it between 260,000 and 270,000 people.

Joy for Many Little Tots Assured by "Baby Dolls"

NUMEROUS LETTERS RECEIVED PRAISING PRIZES

Joy for many little tots who yearned for "baby dolls" and were too young to win the prize for themselves has been brought into their lives by grown-ups as the result of The Constitution's great "Baby Ann" offer.

This fact is evidenced by numerous letters received from delighted winners of "Baby Ann" dolls all over Georgia, and in practically all cases the dolls were won for little girls to serve as Christmas presents.

While there is no doubting that The Constitution's unparalleled free doll offer came at the psychological time to stir people who desired a helping hand for the Santa Claus season, others went into the game to win a playmate for "little sister" without waiting for the arrival of Christmas.

Here's two letters just received by The Constitution illustrating the two cases in point. The first is from Mrs. Fred Thad, of Tallapoosa, Ga., who won a "Baby Ann" in one day. If I just want to let you know I received the doll O. K. and how pleased I am at earning such a beautiful doll and for such a little trouble. I received my book one day and mailed it back the next. It was no trouble at all. "Baby Ann" is to be a Christmas present for my little six-year-old girl, and I can imagine her joy when she sees it. I can hardly wait for time to give it to her. I thank you very much and I only wish every child could own one like it, for it is a beauty."

The second letter is from Walter B. Peterson, P. O. Box 25, New Holland, Ga., who writes: "I received the doll all O. K. She certainly is a beauty. My little sister, Sarah Emma, is more than pleased with 'Baby Ann.' She is only four years old, and the doll is as large as she is."

Don't wait any longer. Christmas is coming, and little girls want beautiful dolls most of all at that time. In this issue of The Constitution appears a full-page advertisement telling all about "Baby Ann," the finest doll made by an American manufacturer, and how The Constitution is able to offer her absolutely free of charge to its readers under a great special purchase plan.

Many people, including little boys and girls, have won her in one day. "It's easy," is what they say. If they can win so handsily, so can you. So turn to the full-page advertisement; study the instructions carefully, then mail in your entry blank and get busy. "Baby Ann" wants to come and live with you.

car of the train struck the bad rail. It left the track and those behind were also pulled off. The cars ran along the ties for about one hundred yards, but remained upright, although the tracks were pulled from under the last three Pullmans and they skidded along on the ties.

The fact that it was an all-star train undoubtedly saved the lives of a hundred or more passengers, officials said.

As soon as word of the wreck was received here, a relief train was made up and sent to the scene. Passengers were picked up and brought to this city and later sent to their destinations east of here. As far as could be learned the worst injured person was a man with a sprained ankle.

Engineer Alive In Train Crash, States Atlantian

An Albany dispatch quoting members of the train crew as expressing the belief that Engineer John D. Evans was dead before his train, the Kansas City special, crashed into the rear end of the Southland, was declared to be without foundation Friday by B. F. Parker, Atlanta flour salesman, living in the McJannet apartments, who was a passenger on the Kansas City special.

After the crash, according to Mr. Parker, he found the engineer lying on the roadbed at the side of his engine and he was still breathing.

I was en route to Atlanta from Jacksonville, he said. "The train left Jacksonville at 8:25 o'clock Wednesday night. I was in my berth, undressed, and was preparing to go to sleep when I felt the check of the train's speed which resulted from the sudden application of the emergency brakes. I realized that something was the matter. Then the crash came."

"There was considerable groaning in my sleeper, and further up on the train I could hear screaming. "I slipped on my shoes and an overcoat over my pajamas and alighted and went up to the locomotive. The engineer was still alive when I reached him. Someone was feeling his pulse. Whoever it was said that it was too late for medical aid and the injured man soon expired. One of his legs was cut off, and his other one was badly mangled. It appeared as if he had jumped and fallen back under the wheels of his engine. The fireman jumped and escaped safely."

The flagman of the Southland came back to our train and tried to get some of the passengers to sign a statement to the effect that we had seen some flames burning, but no one could recall having seen them."

He said the flagman of the front train claimed that he placed two flares on the road to warn the Kansas City special of the presence of the Southland on the track.

HASTY IS EXONERATED BY SOLICITOR WOOD

Marletta, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)—Keller Hasty, pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, who was indicted with five other men in connection with the whipping of Mrs. Bertha Holcombe and H. S. Morton, was exonerated completely in a statement issued today by John Wood, solicitor of the Blue Ridge circuit. Cases against all of the men were dismissed following the acquittal Wednesday night of Parke Cook, one of the defendants.

Following is the solicitor's statement: "The result of the trial of the cases against Keller Hasty and others charged in connection with the flogging of Mrs. Bertha Holcombe, in Cobb superior court, which terminated on yesterday, taken in connection with the evidence as to the whereabouts of Keller Hasty at the time of the commission of this offense, was so conclusive and convincing as to leave no doubt in my mind that Hasty was not present and had no participation in the commission of this crime, and I agreed to a verdict in his favor, fully and completely exonerating him from any complicity with the commission of this offense. "On account of the widespread publicity given the case, so far as Keller Hasty is concerned, I feel that very grave injustice has been done him, and I am glad to do all I can as the officer prosecuting these cases to right this wrong. "Respectfully, "JOHN S. WOOD, "Solicitor General Blue Ridge Circuit."

BIBLE STUDY CLASSES OPENED AT Y. M. C. A.

The Bible study classes for the season of 1923-24 opened last night at the Young Men's Christian association at a rally supper meeting. These classes will meet every Friday evening from 7 to 7:45. Supper will be served at 6:30 every week for the benefit of the men who come direct from the office to the association building.

The speaker of the evening was E. B. Quick, the southeastern religious director of the Christian church. Mr. Quick is an Atlanta man and made quite an inspirational address on the subject "The Bible and the Man."

The courses offered and teachers for same are as follows: "How Jesus Met Life's Questions," taught by Dr. Witherspoon Dodge, pastor of the Central Congregational church. "The Life of Paul," taught by Rev. L. M. Twigg, and the "Life of Christ," by Philip M. Colbert, general secretary of the association.

Daring Aviator Thrills Thousands Friday

Captain C. R. McMullin, daring air pilot, standing alongside his "writing machine," an S. E. type British scout plane, which he used Friday afternoon to thrill Atlantans in a spectacular exhibition of sky-writing to advertise "Lucky Strike" cigarettes.

Using the blue sky for a blackboard, white chemical smoke for writing fluid and an airplane for a writing machine, Captain C. R. McMullin, daring aviator, thrilled thousands Friday afternoon with a spectacular exhibition of sky-writing.

Necks craned and gasps came to the lips of those grouped on the ground who watched his daring maneuvering, high in the air, and marveled at the terrific rate of speed attained.

Captain McMullin is appearing in Atlanta under the auspices of the Skywriting Corporation of America, and a series of ten flights are planned to advertise Lucky Strike cigarettes.

the aviator writing the two words, "Lucky Strike," on each flight.

Ascends 12,000 Feet. Captain McMullin "took off" at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon and soon attained an altitude of nearly 12,000 feet. He maneuvered about at this height for several minutes, attaining a speed of more than one hundred miles per hour, then suddenly cut loose with his fluid, thick chemical smoke which came from the rear of the ship. Within a period of seven minutes, during which the flyer twisted and snarled through the sky, the words "Lucky Strike" were completed and stood out boldly and easily discernible at a height of more than two miles.

The letters appeared to be about Athens, world-renowned Bible student, formerly a resident of London, England, will preach at the Presbyterian church here Sunday. This is the first time Dr. Morgan has ever preached in a city the size of Sparta and a record congregation is expected to hear him. He will be here as guest of his son, Rev. Frank Morgan, who is pastor of the local Presbyterian church.

Kills Baby Sister As 'Unloaded' Gun Is Fired in Play

Hampton, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)—Rosa Lee Martin, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Martin, who lives three miles from Hampton, was accidentally shot and killed by her 10-year-old brother last night. An older brother had returned from hunting and put the gun down and William, not knowing the gun was loaded, picked it up and pointed it at his little sister. He pulled the trigger, shooting her through the heart. She died instantly. She is survived by her parents and three brothers, Otis, 15, William, 10, and Guy, 6. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

DR. CAMPBELL MORGAN TO PREACH IN SPARTA

Sparta, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)—Announcement has been made that Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, of one mile in length and at least two miles high. They were perfectly written twice within a period of twenty minutes. The word "Lucky" was written in capital letters and "Strike" was written in small letters, the first words floating away in a brisk wind encountered just as the aviator circled and started over again his daring feat.

Files Again Today. Captain McMullin will "take off" Saturday morning at 11 o'clock and will again give his exhibition of sky-writing in the unique advertising campaign. Each day during next week that sufficient sky is seen Captain McMullin will go through his act.

Railroad Y. M. C. A. He speaks every day at 9 and 7:30 o'clock. On Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock a special service will be held at which time the Paramount Male Quartet will sing and Rev. Cavalieri will speak. The meetings will close Thursday afternoon. Rev. Cavalieri is well known in Atlanta, having lived here and served the Railroad Y. M. C. A. for fifteen years as assistant secretary, associated with W. A. Waggoner.

CAMERON DEFENDER BEFORE COURT AGAIN

Milwaukee, Wis., November 30.—John Dietz, "defender of Cameron dam," who was sentenced to life imprisonment when convicted of killing a deputy sheriff, attempting to carry out a court order concerning the dam, is in the toils of the law again. Dietz was sentenced by Governor Rhine May 13, 1921, after serving 10 years of his sentence. He is now charged with threatening to kill his landlady, Mrs. Polly Talbot of this city. He emphatically denied her story and says that the woman is an agent of the lumber company which he fought for possession of the dam site.

Bankruptcy Petition.

An involuntary petition of bankruptcy against the firm of Cameron, Daniel company, cotton merchants, was filed Friday in federal court by creditors of the company. Debts listed at a total of $1,025.25 by the three firms, which included L. M. Davies & Company, the Young Commission company, and the R. M. Sims company, were attached to the petition.

TIE GAMES FOR JACKETS HAVE RESULTED THIS YEAR

Grid Season Is Brought To Close in East Today

Few Games Are Scheduled; All Attendance Records Broken During Past Season

New York, November 30.—The football season in the east is saying more farewells this season than Adolph Patti chipped in a farewell career. The first parting was attended by rough ceremonies on scores of fields one week ago. The next adieux were enacted in widely scattered spots on Thanksgiving day. And now the absolute, five-star, sporting-final farewell of the football season is to take place Saturday afternoon. There will be only a few games, among them the annual grudge fight between Fordham and the University of New York and Georgetown of Washington at the Yankee stadium, and the equally fervent proceedings between Holy Cross and Boston College at Boston.

The greatest season football ever known applies to the game in the east again this year, although in 1922 it did seem that the frenzy over football, both in college and out, could reach no further heights. The Yale bowl, which makes the largest baseball park resemble a kitchenette flat, was crowded with 80,000 at least once this season and the stands at all the other large schools were packed at all important games.

Many Watch Penn Game.

In Philadelphia the new stadium at Franklin field, dedicated only last year, with a capacity of nearly 60,000 people, was too small by many thousands of seats when the populace turned out to see the desperate Penn team fight Cornell to a 14 to 7 score. Incidentally, in that game, two of the romantic situations of fiction, one tragic, the other joyous, were enacted, although not many of the rooters realized what was coming off. Swede Sorenson, Penn's back who paved the way for Penn's only touchdown made by Thomas, was a veteran of three years on the scrub and he closed his career with glory in his only varsity game, the toughest game and the biggest game on Penn's schedule. And Tex Haner, Penn's captain, sat on the sidelines from start to finish, never breaking into the line-up. The captain had lost his place on his own team in the last week of mid scrapping for places on the varsity.

Cornell's failure to swamp Penn seems to have confirmed the opinion that Yale is the champion of the east. Cornell and Yale did not meet and comparisons therefore must be indirect. Harvard and Princeton fared ill in

Track Star Is Injured in Crash

New York, November 30.—Loren Murchison, National A. A. U. sprint champion at 100 and 220 yards, and America's greatest star sprinter for the 1924 Olympics in Paris, has been seriously injured in an automobile accident here Friday to be treated by specialists for a fracture or dislocation of one vertebra and for torn ligaments in his back.

The mishap occurred in Philadelphia last Monday, Murchison said. He did not seem very eager to give the details.

If Murchison is so badly hurt that he will not be able to do his best in the Paris games, America will have lost two stars from the Olympic team, as Charlie Padlock, of California, was declared ineligible last spring for failing to tip his hat to an A. A. U. official.

Signs for Bout.

Philadelphia, November 30.—Panchito Villa, world's flyweight champion, will defend his title in a 10-round decision bout here with Patsy Wallace, of this city. The bout was signed last night. The fight will be under the new state boxing laws affecting a decision, which becomes effective tomorrow.

L. FIRPO AND WILLS MAY MEET

New York, November 30.—Tex Rickard today declined to reveal details of negotiations he has had under way for some time to match Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, and Luis Firpo, but indicated that some progress toward arranging the bout has been made.

Rickard admitted receiving word from Firpo in which the latter suggested May 5 as a satisfactory date for holding the fight. The promoter, however, said he had no definite date in mind, although he said some time about May 1 would be desirable.

Rickard apparently has definitely given up a proposal to stage the bout in the Argentine, particularly as Wills is opposed to meeting Firpo in the latter's native country. The most likely scene will be New York, but the promoter will not reveal whether he plans to build an arena, which, it is suggested, might also be used later for a match between the Firpo-Wills victor and Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion.

Rickard already has Firpo under contract to fight Wills but so far the negro and his manager, Paddy Mullins, have steadily refused to accept the promoter's terms.

Rickard, however, is confident that he will be able to adjust differences with Mullins and bring Firpo and Wills together. He was silent on Firpo's statement that he was to receive $200,000 or forty per cent of the gate receipts for the fight.

GOLF PROFESSIONALS NAMED FOR COURSE

Chicago, November 30.—(Special.) Jack Patterson, of the Midwestern Country club, and Alec Dickson, of the Ridge, have been appointed as professionals in charge of the new indoor golf course of the mammoth Chicago Beach hotel.

This sportiest of indoor courses is carpeted with more than 800 yards of specially made Wilton carpet and has just been completed at a cost of $18,000.

The holes of the Chicago Beach indoor course, easily the largest in the world, range in length from ten to forty feet and while there are three dog leg holes, positively there is no break putting. Indeed at a recent opening noted golf scribes from all parts of the country in their attacks on par found that the ball ran true on the carpet purposely made with a longer nap than usual.

A PIECE FOR THE PAPER

By PAUL WARWICK

Saturdays Are Now Saturdays.

Glancing over your shoulder this morning, you will probably notice that just a little kick has been taken out of the nation's Saturdays. The reason for this strange phenomena, if you haven't been paying strict attention, is that the football season is just about over. A snappy December the first combat or so—and there you are.

Speaking for the state of Georgia, if Governor Walker will pardon us, and for certain sections of the revered state of Kentucky—chief interest this day wraps itself about the contest in Athens between the Bull Dogs and the Colonels. A game that, which should provide some interest.

TAKING DOPE IN HABIT-FORMING QUANTITIES.

The dopesters, of course, sit themselves down and wait for the Colonels to play over as many touchdowns as they need, rise and go back to Kentucky. Georgia's twin disasters, Vanderbilt and Alabama, have rather knocked the prominent stuffing out of the high regard with which that institution was held just after the Virginia game.

But we must not lose sight of the fact that a pair of calamities like those which befell Georgia are calculated to make the recipient none too complacent. In fact, such things have been known to make football teams angry, to peeve them, to arouse their ire to the point where they make the patriot both it.

And mad teams are not easy to beat—especially when the occasion is their last season's opportunity to wipe out the memory of bitter defeat from their own recollections and the minds of their student followers, the alumni of their institution and all its followers. Even its sponsors.

HAVE YOU DRIED OUT YET?

Seemed a meteorological pity that Friday should dawn so bright and fair, after the day. There wasn't a thing to do Friday—but Thursday! What could that gang of twenty-five thousand have not looked like or felt like with the sun's good rays a-beaming down?

Still, we Atlanta folks can't complain. Think about the loyal chap that flivvered all the way up here through the mud and slush then had to flivver back Thursday night so as to be back home in time to open up and sweep out Friday morning.

A recollection stands out. We discovered a man who is finally won over to our theory of avoiding dope, comparative scores, tips, injuries, condition and everything else when dealing with football games.

Sanding at the entrance, or exit rather, of the concrete stands, this robust Tech supporter was soliciting assistance. "Who'll lend me seven dollars to buy a hot house?" he queried, with the whole Thanksgiving flock as his prospects.

Few Games Are Scheduled Over the Country Today

BY WALTER CAMP.

(Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

Special Licensed Wire to the Constitution.

New York, November 30.—The biggest of all games with which the season ends Saturday probably will be that between the Quantico Marines and the Third Army corps at Baltimore.

This game will draw service men, as well as the general crowd, from Washington and Philadelphia, as well as from Baltimore itself. It was a big occasion last year, with a fiercely contested match, and it promises to be the same this year.

The big question is whether the Third Army corpsman stop Goettge of the Marines, if they fail in that they are lost. If they stop them they may win.

Boston will have a good game, too, in the Boston College-Holy Cross contest, with the odds slightly favoring the former if all her men are in good condition.

Fordham and Georgetown will provide the New York game. Fordham has had pretty hard luck it seems but Georgetown also has suffered some defeats, and each will try to make a satisfactory roundup of the season.

Centre and Georgia meet at Athens, with Centre the favorite. Seattle will have a good game between Washington and Oregon, with Washington favored to win.

Western Team Superior.

Even in the east the old theory that all the good football is played in these centers of culture is dying out. The "inquiring reporter" of a New York newspaper who asked his victims whether East or West was superior in gridiron talent, received among others the following replies:

From a dealer in bonds and a former athlete: "The western teams are superior. I attribute this to their united spirit and their general progressiveness."

From a banker: "I think the indifferent showing of the eastern teams is due to the short time allotted them to get into condition."

From a hotelier: "The western teams have the edge. Their teams seem to have more ruggedness, and their coaches seem to have stolen a march on the eastern boys and put over strategical and scientific plays."

Siki Found After Escaping From Fight Manager Several Days Ago

GIVES $1000 TO HARLEM FRIENDS

New York, November 30.—Battling Siki, the Senegalese boxer, who escaped from his manager's custody with $1,000 last week, has been recovered and returned to his coop at Summit, N. J., but most of the money is gone forever.

Strange scratches on the stone lions which guard the portals of New York public library were the clue which led to the recovery of the strayed celebrity.

Patrolman Eric Muldoon, whose duty it is to see that nobody insults the stone lions, left his post to pursue a Thanksgiving celebrant who had slapped Mary Emmeline Lyon, the one on the left side of the entrance. While he was gone a dark-complexioned man with a Senegalese accent advanced to Harold Lyon, the husband, on the right side of the entrance. Bystanders said the lion sumo went to the dark-complexioned personage who nevertheless exclaimed in Senegalese: "I am an A. A. U.," and bit the granite tuft off Harold Lyon's tail.

Finishes Race Despite Fractured Leg.

Sloux City, Ia., November 30.—Paul Ellis, of Dunlap, Iowa, a student of Morningside College, finished the annual Thanksgiving Day four-mile cross-country run of the North Central conference with a broken leg.

When the runners started on their dash, Ellis fell and fractured a bone in his right leg. He finished the race and then collapsed on the field.

X-Country Run Slated Today

Lexington, Va., November 30.—The distance runners of Washington and Lee university will attempt to win the Virginia for an equal claim to the official cup in the annual meet at Richmond Saturday. While the season to date has been partially successful, yet the bolt left on the record by a strong Virginia Tech team remains a " sore spot" for the Harriers, and a victory in Saturday's race alone will heal it. While it is not definitely known at this time that V. P. T. will enter, it is thought that they will decide to do so, and in

SCHEDULE OF 'GATOR TEAM DEFENDED

Birmingham, Ala., November 30.—In preparing both its 1923 and 1924 schedules the University of Florida offered games to every important member of the S. I. C. within its territory, said Mr. White. "So far only two conference teams have agreed to play. From the University of Alabama, the Southern Conference race on a muddy field. The article was carried in a number of papers throughout the country.

In 1923 the University of Florida defeated the Auburn team in the first game, outside the Auburn game of 1913, that Tech had been defeated by an opponent on Grand field in seven years. The score of the Navy-Tech game was 14-0 in favor of the Middles.

This year Penn State and Notre Dame defeated the best efforts of the fighting Tech team. Notre Dame had an easy win with a 35-7 score. Penn State scored Tech's only touchdown in the matter of first down in that game, more than the Army and Princeton put together were able to garner.

Penn State and Tech had a royal battle, and the Nittany Lions were able to gather one touchdown from their afternoon's efforts. Tech did not score.

No Defeats.

In all of the four years of Tech's existence has been head coach of football at Tech, and he has never been beaten by the warriors of the Gold and White, and four have tied the Tech machine. Suffice it to say that these four occurred this year. The roll call consists of Florida, Alabama, Kentucky and Auburn.

The next football season is nine months away. Yet, it would not be entirely amiss to state that these four occurred this year. The record of Tech is going to have a football team next year and don't ever forget it.

To be good in the backfield will be thoroughly seasoned and aged. The experience of a season just passed

Although in the east, they set forth, football officials are paid from $100 to $200 a game, the western coaches are paid more. A close decision may result in an appropriation being heaped upon them and even arouse which would injure their private business.

J. Hawley May Quit Coaching

New York, November 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—Dartmouth may be without the services of Jesse B. Hawley as football coach next year, it was learned today.

Hawley, here with his big green eleven for the Thanksgiving day game with Columbia, admitted that his business duties on Chicago were such that he doubted whether he would be able to obtain the necessary leave of absence for gridiron coaching at Hanover in 1924.

The record made by Hawley's team this year, his first in direct charge, stamped it as one of the best Dartmouth teams in its history.

Graduates and undergraduates are particularly anxious to have him continue in charge because of the steady improvement of the team. A close decision may result in an appropriation being heaped upon them and even arouse which would injure their private business.

Hawley, a 1900 Dartmouth graduate and a star halfback while at college, first grappled game as a coach in 1917, leading that team from the western conference cellar to second place.

All-Stars Will Play Fed Eleven

Although the grand old game of football was scheduled to make its exit Thanksgiving day for the year 1923, grid fans of Atlanta will have the opportunity to witness a real football clash this afternoon in Spiller's Park when Tubby Walton's all-star aggregation will meet the Federal prison eleven.

One of the main features of the game is that Bill Fincher, all-American back, will be seen in action at tackle for the all-stars. The game is scheduled to get under way at 2:30 p. m.

Following is a list of the all-star players: Tubby Walton, Bill Fincher, Shorty Doyle, "Fat" Quarles, T. B. Lewis, Irish Lyle, Joe Gaston, Irv Greben, Skinny Hicks, Ed McDermitt and Red Dorrough.

DECIDE ON DATE FOR DRAKE RELAYS

Chicago, November 30.—Kenneth L. Wilson, director of athletics at Drake university, announced today that the Drake relays would be held at the Drake stadium at Des Moines on April 25 and 26, the same dates as the Penn relays.

Missouri Valley conference directors and track coaches here in connection with the meeting of western athletic representatives, pledged their entries at the Drake relays and Director Wilson said he expects to obtain important entries from many sections of the country, particularly the south and west.

Director Wilson is considering the advisability of adding a 440-yard hurdle race, an Olympic event, to the relays program.

Offered Contract.

Los Angeles, Cal., November 30.—Peterson, star all-round athlete at the University of Southern California, has been offered a contract by the Cleveland Americans, and it is reported at the university that he probably will accept.

Jackets Have Been Held Even Four Times During This Year; Team Should Be Strong in '24

BY JOHN STATON.

The tie that binds. Tech has been bound four times this year, an exceptional happening for any team, and most extraordinary when applied to Tech. Coach Alexander has been at the head of football for four years at Tech. During that time his teams have won twenty games and tied four. In addition, Tech has lost one sectional game. In 1923 Tech defeated Tech 10-3. In 1921 Penn State defeated the Yellow Jackets 28-7 in New York. Last year, Notre Dame and the Navy defeated Tech.

Notre Dame whipped the Yellow Jackets in their own back yard, the first time, outside the Auburn game of 1913, that Tech had been defeated by an opponent on Grand field in seven years. The score of the Navy-Tech game was 14-0 in favor of the Middles.

This year Penn State and Notre Dame defeated the best efforts of the fighting Tech team. Notre Dame had an easy win with a 35-7 score. Penn State scored Tech's only touchdown in the matter of first down in that game, more than the Army and Princeton put together were able to garner.

Penn State and Tech had a royal battle, and the Nittany Lions were able to gather one touchdown from their afternoon's efforts. Tech did not score.

No Defeats.

In all of the four years of Tech's existence has been head coach of football at Tech, and he has never been beaten by the warriors of the Gold and White, and four have tied the Tech machine. Suffice it to say that these four occurred this year. The roll call consists of Florida, Alabama, Kentucky and Auburn.

The next football season is nine months away. Yet, it would not be entirely amiss to state that these four occurred this year. The record of Tech is going to have a football team next year and don't ever forget it.

To be good in the backfield will be thoroughly seasoned and aged. The experience of a season just passed

Race Program Is Arranged

Baltimore, November 30.—The stakes of the Tia Juana Jockey club to be renewed in the course of the winter meeting of 100 days or more that began Thanksgiving will close with James W. Coffroth, whose headquarters are in the Speckels building at San Diego, California, December 1.

The stakes are the Colville handicap, $40,000 added, one mile and a quarter, 3-year-olds and up; Tia Juana derby, $10,000 added, one mile and furlong, 3-year-olds; Tia Juana cup, $10,000 added, two miles, 3-year-olds and over; Tia Juana futurity, $7,500 added, four furlongs and a half, 2-year-olds; speed handicap, $4,000 added, five furlongs and a half, 3-year-olds and over; juvenile, $3,000 added, four furlongs, 2-year-olds. The speed will be run February 17, the juvenile March 9, the derby, March 16, the futurity, March 23, the Colville, March 30, and the cup, April 13.

No more elaborate program for a session of winter racing has been devised in this or any other country within living memory. The Colville has been a feature of annual renewal of the sport at the San Diego course since James W. Coffroth, for whom it is named, established racing there some ten years ago. Last March it schedule Dartmouth has arranged for next season, when Yale will be added to a list already including Harvard, Cornell and other powerful foes.

Hawley, a 1900 Dartmouth graduate and a star halfback while at college, first grappled game as a coach in 1917, leading that team from the western conference cellar to second place.

Although in the east, they set forth, football officials are paid from $100 to $200 a game, the western coaches are paid more. A close decision may result in an appropriation being heaped upon them and even arouse which would injure their private business.

J. Hawley May Quit Coaching

New York, November 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—Dartmouth may be without the services of Jesse B. Hawley as football coach next year, it was learned today.

Hawley, here with his big green eleven for the Thanksgiving day game with Columbia, admitted that his business duties on Chicago were such that he doubted whether he would be able to obtain the necessary leave of absence for gridiron coaching at Hanover in 1924.

The record made by Hawley's team this year, his first in direct charge, stamped it as one of the best Dartmouth teams in its history.

Graduates and undergraduates are particularly anxious to have him continue in charge because of the steady improvement of the team. A close decision may result in an appropriation being heaped upon them and even arouse which would injure their private business.

FOOTBALL VICTORY ENDS STUDENT STRIKE

Harbor Beach, Mich., November 30. A football victory broke the Southern Harbor Beach High school Friday after the students had struck for two days when two gridiron stars were suspended.

Vowing vengeance on the faculty if Harbor Beach met defeat, the student body marched to the field on Thanksgiving day and saw their favorites minus the two stars—flattened out the Sandhogs eleven by a score of 33 to 6. The strike was cancelled.

Mrs. T. B. Ray Dies.

Richmond, Va., November 20.—Mrs. Jasper Ray, wife of the Rev. Dr. T. B. Ray, associate secretary of the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, died in a local hospital today after ten days' illness. Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon followed by burial in Hollywood cemetery. Mrs. Ray was born near Danville, Ky., 41 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Lagriddle Entertain On First Wedding Anniversary

A beautiful occasion was the bridge-supper at which Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lagriddle entertained Friday evening at their home in the Pallas apartment in celebration of their first marriage anniversary.

The reception rooms were decorated throughout with an effective arrangement of yellow and white chrysanthemums and brilliant autumn foliage. The color note of yellow and white predominated in appointments of the supper table, which was covered with a beautiful lace cloth and held in the center a crystal bowl of chrysanthemums. Surrounding this were silver candlesticks holding yellow tapers and Tiffany crystal compots with yellow bonbons.

A French vanity was presented the winner of the ladies' prize, while the gentlemen's prize was a cigarette holder. The consolation was a set of gilt-edged cards.

Miss Harriet Turman, sister of the hostess, assisted in entertaining, wearing a gown of blue colored chiffon and velvet.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Borkin Pennington, Mr. and Mrs. Van Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hatcher, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Egan, Dr. and Mrs. Julian H. Buff, Mr. and Mrs. Clement Evans, Miss Henrietta Davis, Miss Dolly Hart, Miss Frances Powell, Lewis Crooke, Stuart Coleman and Frank Hooper, Jr.

Week's Calendar at Woman's Club Forecasts Interesting Program

The second afternoon tea of the season, sponsored by the president of the Atlanta Woman's club, will be given Thursday, December 2, at 3 o'clock. The committee of the club will entertain for Mrs. Alonzo Richardson.

Mrs. Newton C. Wing, chairman of this committee, will be assisted in receiving and entertaining the guests by Mrs. Frank Naeffle, secretary of the committee, Mrs. Arthur Hazen, treasurer, and Mrs. George Ripley, press representative. Mrs. Edith Wing, Peacock and Mrs. W. A. Manning.

The lovely banquet hall of the club house will be the place for the reception and fifty or more club members will be invited to enjoy the social side of the club. The reception will be held at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of Thursday.

During the past week numerous visitors have been entertained at the Woman's Club, among others were Rosa Ponselle, the noted opera singer; Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, national vice chairman of the Woman's democratic committee; Mrs. Benton McMillan and others.

Fine Arts Will Meet.

The Fine Arts department of the Atlanta Woman's club has arranged an interesting meeting to be held at the home of Miss Mary Haverty, Tuesday afternoon, December 4, at 3 o'clock. The subscribers members to Mrs. George B. Hinman's series of lectures recently concluded and members of the Art Division of the Woman's club are cordially invited to attend.

This will conclude the work of the division of art and after the holidays, when the activities will again be resumed. A round table discussion and review by Mrs. George B. Hinman, besides the delightful opportunity the members will have to see the splendid collection of paintings in the Haverty home.

Mrs. Charles Jerome, chairman of the department of Fine Arts, is especially gratified that a committee of the division of art will be in the club, up to this time during the active club season. Mrs. Jerome states that at the meeting Tuesday it will be determined just what manner of activities will be taken up after the holidays, by this division.

Cook Book On Sale.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson announces that the Economics Department of the club will place on sale for the holidays hundreds of the Atlanta Woman's Club Cook Books, and she urges those members who have not supplied themselves with this attractive volume to the home to do so now and those who wish to present Christmas gifts of a splendid cook book, which is filled with the best recipes available for all sorts of dainty dishes, which supply the Christmas table.

Mrs. J. A. Carlisle, chairman of the department, assures the housewives of Atlanta, that a more complete cook book could not be found anywhere. For the reason that a committee of the club compiled this volume, from sufficiently tried-out recipes by the members of the club. Mrs. Carlisle states also that the book does not only contain recipes for cooking, but has directions for many kinds of emergencies that are met in keeping the home comfortable and attractive.

With the assistance of Mrs. J. M. Manry, chairman of the club's division, Mrs. Carlisle's department has sold hundreds of these splendid cook books, some even going into homes in France and England.

Citizenship Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the American citizenship department of the Woman's club Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This meeting will be in the nature of an afternoon tea, and Mrs. R. M. Striplin, chairman of the department, urges all members to make reservations at once.

The citizenship training class of the Woman's club, Mrs. L. L. Thayer, chairman, had its special guest Wednesday Mrs. Ira Farmer, of Thonastown, Ga., who was in the city attending the conference of democratic women, and the school of democracy which followed.

Mrs. Farmer is one of the leading women of her section, and also of the state, and of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, and her speeches always reflect a high degree of intellect. Mrs. Farmer spoke to the class on "Applied Citizenship," telling how women can help in their own communities. She made a splendid impression on the class, and stressed the importance of exercising tact and the grace of God in dealing with the men; that it never pays to wear a chip on one's shoulder, or to be too keen on claiming credit for good things accomplished in cooperating with the men, even when the women started the movement.

Mrs. Farmer emphasized the fact that she is a farmer by name and by profession, and that it is necessary for all to know that prosperity for the farmer means prosperity for all.

Literature Class.

The class in literature, Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, chairman, will meet at the Atlanta Woman's club Wednesday, December 5, at 3 o'clock. The program will continue to deal with the problem story, and in the five minutes' study of technique the point of view will still be under consideration.

After prayer, singing of a patriotic song and the reading of the minutes by the secretary, Mrs. W. A. Robertson, a paper will be read by Mrs. S. D. Neely, "First Person Narrator," a Third Person Narrator, biography of Edna Ferber, by Mrs. J. N. Bateman; a Shift in Point of View; "A Gay Old Dog," by Edna Ferber; Mrs. Martha Washington Morel; discussion, led by Miss Mary Randolph Kent; study in technique.

Kappa Deltarion chapter of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity at Georgia Tech has as its guests for Thanksgiving dinner Miss Harriet Durham, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Miss Martha Hurdman, Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, of Macon; Miss Mary Lynne, of Acon; Scott; and Miss Nancy Linthicum, of Atlanta.

An informal dance was held after the game in honor of these and other visitors. Among those present were C. S. Coleman, alumnus of the chapter, and his wife, both of Birmingham; Misses Margaret Perry and Laura Lawton, of Decatur; Miss Katherine Catchings, of Wesleyan college; Miss Clarke Davis, of Acon; Misses Katherine Lott, Dorothy Lane, Helen Hargrave and Lucia Baldwin, all of Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Hosts at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Hartley entertained a number of friends at dinner Thanksgiving night.

Chrysanthemums were used to decorate, and a color scheme of yellow and white was followed. After dinner the guests played bridge.

Mrs. Marshall George won the ladies' prize, a buffet set, and Marshall George the gentlemen's prize, two hand-embroidered handkerchiefs.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Marshall George, Mr. and Mrs. Thurston Hatcher, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Branch, Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Paxton, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Lawton, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Webb, Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Elkin, Jr., Miss Farrar, Miss Yancy, Miss Childs, Mr. Brown, Dr. C. G. Morris and Fred Housley.

Miss Farrar Tendered Luncheon.

Miss Geraldine Farrar, noted star in musical circles, who appeared in concert Friday evening at the auditorium, was entertained at a delightful luncheon Friday by Mrs. John Edgar Murphy at her home on Peachtree street.

Miss Farrar was accompanied by her father, Sidney Farrar, of North Hampton, N. H., who is an honored guest at the luncheon.

Mrs. Murphy and Miss Farrar have been close friends since the great singer's first appearance in Atlanta many years ago.

A group of friends and admirers of the honor guest were present on this occasion.

Bridge at Club For Debutante.

Miss Carrie Lou Reynolds, lovely debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reynolds, was the central figure at a bridge-tea Friday afternoon at the Piedmont Driving club entertained by Miss Elizabeth Shevake.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums were used in the decoration of the room where the game was played. Tea was served at individual tables, which were adorned in the center with small baskets of flowers.

Miss Shevake received her guests wearing black satin and blue brocade chiffon.

Miss Reynolds was gown in black satin.

Old Veterans Will Be Guests.

Fulton chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy will entertain the veterans at the Confederate Soldiers' Home Saturday afternoon, December 4. All of the Confederate veterans of the city and county are invited to be present.

A splendid musical program has been arranged by the chairman, Mrs. Charles S. Anderson, and the army orchestra quartet, Sergeant Ryan, Miss Martha Anderson and Master Alford Kelly, guarantee one of the best entertainments that the chapter has had at the home.

Refreshments will be served by the young ladies of the chapter.

Mrs. E. B. Williams, president, urges all the members of Fulton chapter to be present promptly at 3 o'clock to assist in receiving the guests.

Ages 13, 15 and 17

Smart Wool Frocks

Specially Priced

$7.95

It's only fair, of course, to tell you that these dresses were bought to sell for much more—$10.00 to $13.75, but they haven't moved as quickly as we expected, so we've blue penciled them for a Saturday clearance sale.

They're of all-wool crepe and French serge, featuring wool slitchery, trimmings of colored leather, taffeta, silver braids. Ages 8 to 12 years.

Girls' Wool Frocks

To Be Closed Out at

Wool crepes, wool jerseys, wool serges—smart becoming frocks with slim tie sashes and bright touches of hand embroidery or briar-stitching.

Frocks left from previous sales that sold for $5, $5.95 and $6.50, but we now have only 8 and 10-year sizes, hence 8 and 10-year-old girls will be lucky today. Colors are navy, brown, tan, rust and green.

Party Dresses Assume More and Still More Importance in Little Girls' Wardrobes.

Wherefore and why all these children's parties?

To be sure we went to parties now and then when we were little girls, but surely we didn't have so full an engagement pad as the little 6-year-olds and 8-year-olds of today. They indeed are the true debutantes of the family, and the little boys who join their routs are the true beaux of the age.

It is not all in the imagination of the mother. Dealers in little girls' frocks will tell you that there is an unprecedented demand for "party frocks." One or two party frocks will not quite do for a season. There are last minute calls for new frocks of the sort to suit special occasions.

And with all this juvenile festivity we have got away from the notion that fine white linen or lawn is the only suitable material for the little girl's party frock. We had to. Our daughters insisted on silks, crepe de chine, chiffons, georgettes, even velvets.

Yellow still seems to be a smart favorite for children, despite the fact that some mothers, strongly object. Greens, too, are prominent, and, as usual, shades of pink and rose with occasional lavenders are in order. The baby blue, once considered so appropriate for the little girl, seems to have lost its hold. Psychologists will tell you that the normal child selects shades blue of its own accord, and he would, if you give him a chance, probably give you a long scientific explanation for this. And since the children seem to be picking out their own frocks now, naturally blue has gone by the boards.

All sorts of laces and fine embroideries are used on party frocks for little girls now, and there is a modish ribbon bows and roses. Even beaded work is sometimes seen, though the wise mother would hardly permit this selection.

BEAUTY CHATS

CORSETS.

A young girl of 15 writes to ask me whether she should wear a low girdle around her waist. She does not want to wear regular corsets, but thinks it is just a little too stout to look well in modern styles. This brings up again the old question of whether or not it is good for a woman to wear a corset.

Recently a prominent physician was quoted in many newspapers as saying that it was, that the abdominal walls needed the support that only band stays could give. Theoretically, I don't at all agree with him. The ideal figure is strong enough and slim enough to support itself properly. Corsets, by restricting movement and often the circulation, cannot do much good and often do a great deal of harm. But, of course, there are times when corsets must be worn.

If a woman has been very ill, her whole body will be weak, and she will need this support. After childbirth, corsets must be worn for many months until the figure is brought back to normal. If the body is too fat for some means must be taken of holding in this flesh and keeping the figure shapely. But then the corset should be too fat, and both the invalid and the mother should practice exercises faithfully until the muscles are strong enough to support themselves.

Even then corsets with many upright bones need not be worn. A good kind is made of elastic webbing which pulls over the hips and is laced into the waist at each side. It has two bones down the back to keep it smooth, and two in front, with strong muslin between, to keep the abdomen flat. Other styles are webbing held up the front but have no bones at the sides.

No, I do not approve of corsets, but I recognize that they must be worn sometimes. When they are they should be as unobtrusive as possible. O. W. B.—It is much better to bleach the hair on your arms and legs than to use anything to remove it. Peroxide will make it so light that it can scarcely be seen, while a depilatory acts somewhat like a shave, and the hair will grow out again very stiff, which means that it will be more noticeable than it had been at first.

S. A. L.—A brassiere should not be too tight, even though it may have a tendency to reduce the size of the bust. There is always some danger of bruising from too much pressure.

Eleventh Ward Holds Classes.

The eleventh ward members of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, under the able leadership of Miss Katherine Koch, are carrying on excellent work in the way of organization.

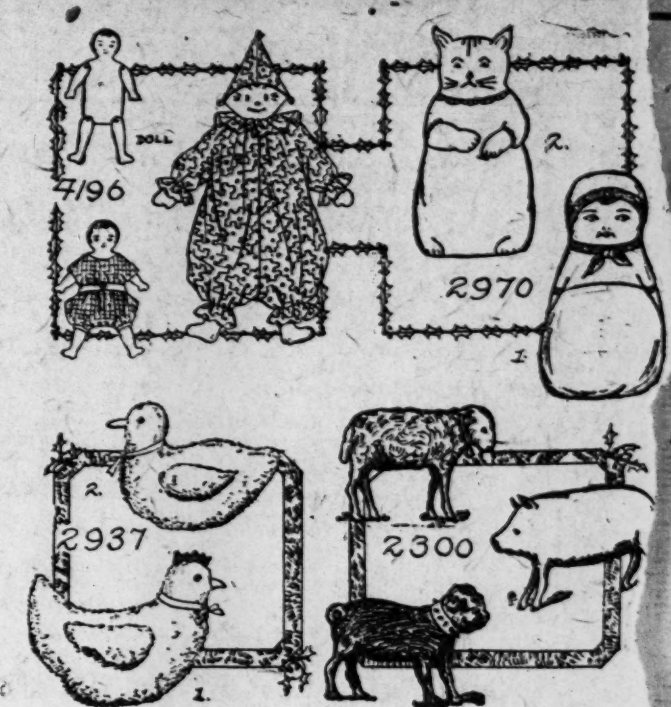

The school for voters conducted by the eleventh ward members of the league are organizing classes in the ward. The east Atlanta class held its first session in the John B. Gordon schoolhouse, Mrs. E. P. Fincher, district chairman, presiding. The first lesson, which was prepared by Miss Eleanor Raoul, was studied.

Talks were made by Mrs. L. V. Kennerly and Mrs. H. V. Stockbridge. The eleventh ward meeting for the ward elections was held immediately after the class. Miss Koch was elected chairman again. Mrs. H. E. Stockbridge was elected first vice chairman, Mrs. W. V. Perry, second vice chairman; Mrs. E. F. Fincher, secretary. Plans were made for registration for the 1924 elections. The following district chairmen will be in charge: Mrs. W. T. Wichey, Mrs. L. V. Kennerly, Mrs. E. F. Fincher, Mrs. J. M. Walker and Mrs. R. S. Sherrill.

Eighth Ward Women Voters Will Meet.

Mrs. Paul LaBlanc announces that there will be a meeting of the eighth ward members of the League of Women Voters in the Tenth Street school at 3 o'clock Wednesday, December 5. At this meeting the officers of the ward will be elected and nominations made for the board members of the league for the coming year. Mrs. LaBlanc urges a full attendance.

The Constitution's Pattern

A NEW DOLL SET.

4108. The little doll mother may not only make dolly's clothes but also the doll, from the models supplied herewith. The body may be of drill, unbleached muslin, oil cloth or satin, with a stuffing of bran, kopski, or cotton. Eyes of shoe buttons, nose and lips of yarn, or the features may be embroidered or painted.

Dressed as a clown this doll will be very attractive. The suit may be of calico, cretonne or scraps of silk or satin. One or two colors of materials may be used. For the rompers, cretonne or gingham is pleasing. Dolly will be so glad of the dear little pockets in her rompers, and "Pierrot," the clown, will do all sorts of tricks in his comfortable costume, if his arms and legs are fastened so as to be movable.

The pattern comprising the doll and the garments is cut in 3 sizes: Small, 12 inches; medium, 16 inches; large, 20 inches in length. The doll requires for a medium size half yard. The rompers 7-8 yard. The suit and hat, 1 1/4 yard of 27-inch material. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A SET OF PLEASING TOYS FOR THE NURSERY.

2970. Here is a comfortable roly poly doll and a cunning cat. Toweling stuffed with cork would make these models floating toys. Plush, felt, flannel, outing flannel, velvet, drill and crash could also be used. The doll could be made of different material below the arms. The pattern is cut in one size.

Bride-Elect Is Feted.

Mrs. Harris Robinson was hostess at the East Lake Country club Friday afternoon in compliment to Miss Little Mae Bailey, a bride-elect. The game was played in the palm room where ten was served later at the individual tables.

Mrs. Robinson was gowned in dark blue tulle. The guests were: Misses Mildred Bayard, Inez Williamson, Marie Porter, Susan Rhodes, Elizabeth Putnam, Ruth Cannon, Lorraine Sales, Hattie Harlow, Laura Weiler, Margaret White, Jeannette Collins, Mrs. H. H. Bayard, Mrs. Charles Wright, Mrs. Cecil Stockard, Mrs. Charles Baller, Mrs. J. D. Irwin and Mrs. Lily Backwell.

THE HOUSEHOLD

Edited by Anne Rittenhouse.

UNINVITED GUESTS.

Some people seem to think that if they chance to call upon a friend and happen to find a party in session they are perfectly justified in remaining as part of the company, even though they have received no previous invitation. Now this is very bad manners, even though your hostess may be incontinent. To be sure, if a friend has invited one or two other friends in to dine informally, and you happen to drop in after dinner, there is no reason why, if your society seems to be congenial, and you are urged, you should not remain. But where there are many guests, and the entertaining is at all formal, then your society is superfluous.

If you are told that your hostess is entertaining leave at once without even permitting her to see you.

In every community there are some tiresome people who have a habit of calling at meal times, and who do not refuse if sufficiently urged to stay to luncheon or dinner. Needless to say these people are very often unattached, and possessed of no home of their own. They find it a matter of economy to come at mealtime. Now, it is not really necessary and, in fact, not quite good form for the hostess to ask a guest to remain to a meal when she does not really send the most sincere welcome with the invitation. Just because Molly's music teacher always happens in at half-past six Molly's mother need not feel that she must ask the teacher to dine. It is just as bad form for her to extend this invitation when she can only do it grudgingly as it is for the teacher to come uninvited. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

Either style requires 3-4 yard of inch material. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A SET OF ATTRACTIVE NURSERY TOYS.

2937. One may have these to toweling, terry cloth, or eider. The filling may be of sawdust, cotton batting, paper snips, cork substance that will make float.

The pattern is in one size and requires 5-8 yard of 24-in. for either toy. A pattern of this illustration to any address on receipt of silver or 1c and 2c stamps.

AN ATTRACTIVE SET OF ANIMALS.

2300. These models make fine for little children. Made of plush, toweling, eiderdown or nettle they are of course soft and unbreakable. The set includes sheep and pig.

The patterns are cut in one only. It will require 1-2 yard of plush for the sheep, 3-4 yard for dog, and 5-6 yard for the pig. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

In ordering patterns write name and address plainly on a sheet of paper. Order by number and enclose price in silver or stamps. Do not mail letter to The Constitution building in Atlanta, but address as follows: Fashion Department, The Constitution, 1188-89 Fulton street Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE WAY OUT

BY EMERSON HOUGH
Next Week: "Gold Out of Celebes."
By Capt. A. E. Dingle.

"Quick!" called Joslin sharply to Marcia Haddon, and cast her the rope. "Make it fast over something!" But he did not stop to see whether or not her weak strength would serve to hold the boat. He was kicking off his shoes, throwing off his coat, even as he spoke, his eyes fixed on the water, as he made ready for a leap few men would have dared.

At length, hesitating no longer, he did what no man ever had known to do before. He dived straight out for the foot of the up-flung crest of the Narrows of the Kentucky—straight down the roll of the "king breaker" itself.

The sun was gone, and the shadows were black in the defile. The argent river went on with its mocking of them, now low and hoarse, now cynically shrieking, as the foaming, flowing water went, altered by the currents of the air.

The two thus alone in the wilderness spoke not a word for some time, and then Joslin could only go on in his own self-reproach. He built the fire, "ma'am," he said vaguely, still endeavoring to explain what could not be explained save in the books of the gods. "I've saved, getting ready to teach. I read while I waited for the fish to bite. I set that line my own way."

"Don't," she said, gentle and just even now. "Please don't talk. I'm afraid—oh, I'm afraid—and I'm so cold—I'm so very cold."
She was shivering now, Joslin as well. He hurried to the edge of the undergrowth and disappeared. The sound of wheels became apparent to her ears. Soon after they stopped, she saw Joslin come again, accompanied by a tall, gaunt man his equal in stature, a man who came and stood near by her, looking down in pity.

"Ma'am," said he, "this is mighty bad—mighty bad."
"Help me, Absalom," said David Joslin. "Mrs. Haddon, you go over there. We're going to take him to the wagon."

Marcia Haddon turned away, her face buried in her hands. She did not see David Joslin and Absalom Gannt as they bent and lifted between them the dead body of the man who but now might have boasted that he held these and the land of these in the hollow of his hand. They held him, neck and heels, in the hollow of their rough load of lumber, which was to make his resting place for a time. Then they came back after the woman.

"I was down to the mill for a load," said Absalom to Joslin as they walked. "It's a lucky thing. That's his wife? Oh, my, ain't that a sight! Ye say he's the company man?"

"Very rich," said Joslin. "She's a good woman, his wife. Well, have to stay with us for a while. We'll have to bury him in here. I reckon—he couldn't ever be got out."
"Tell me how come him to get in there, anyway?"

"Well, into the boat—and on over the boat," replied Joslin. "The current carried him down under the saw his hand—that was where I cut the fish hook out. He was swinging on the set-line when I saw him. I was on the other side then."

"Ye've had a hard time savin' of him, Davy, that's shore enough," rejoined Absalom soberly. "I know what that water is. Well, the Narrows has got one more man. Damn em, anyways."

CHAPTER XI
Marcia Haddon's lawyers wrote with greater and greater insistence from New York, asking her to return to care for the matters of the estate of James Haddon, but she still shrank from the thought of going back to the old associations. A strange, uncomprehended her, a leaden indifference to life, as though all were ended for her as well as for the unfortunate lying yonder on the hill. She found nothing in life to interest her, to offer her any hope, to excite in her any ambitions. "It's useless, useless," said she to herself more than once. She told her own life in review now, day after day, feeling herself unworthy and forsaken, herself too mercenary a critic of herself.

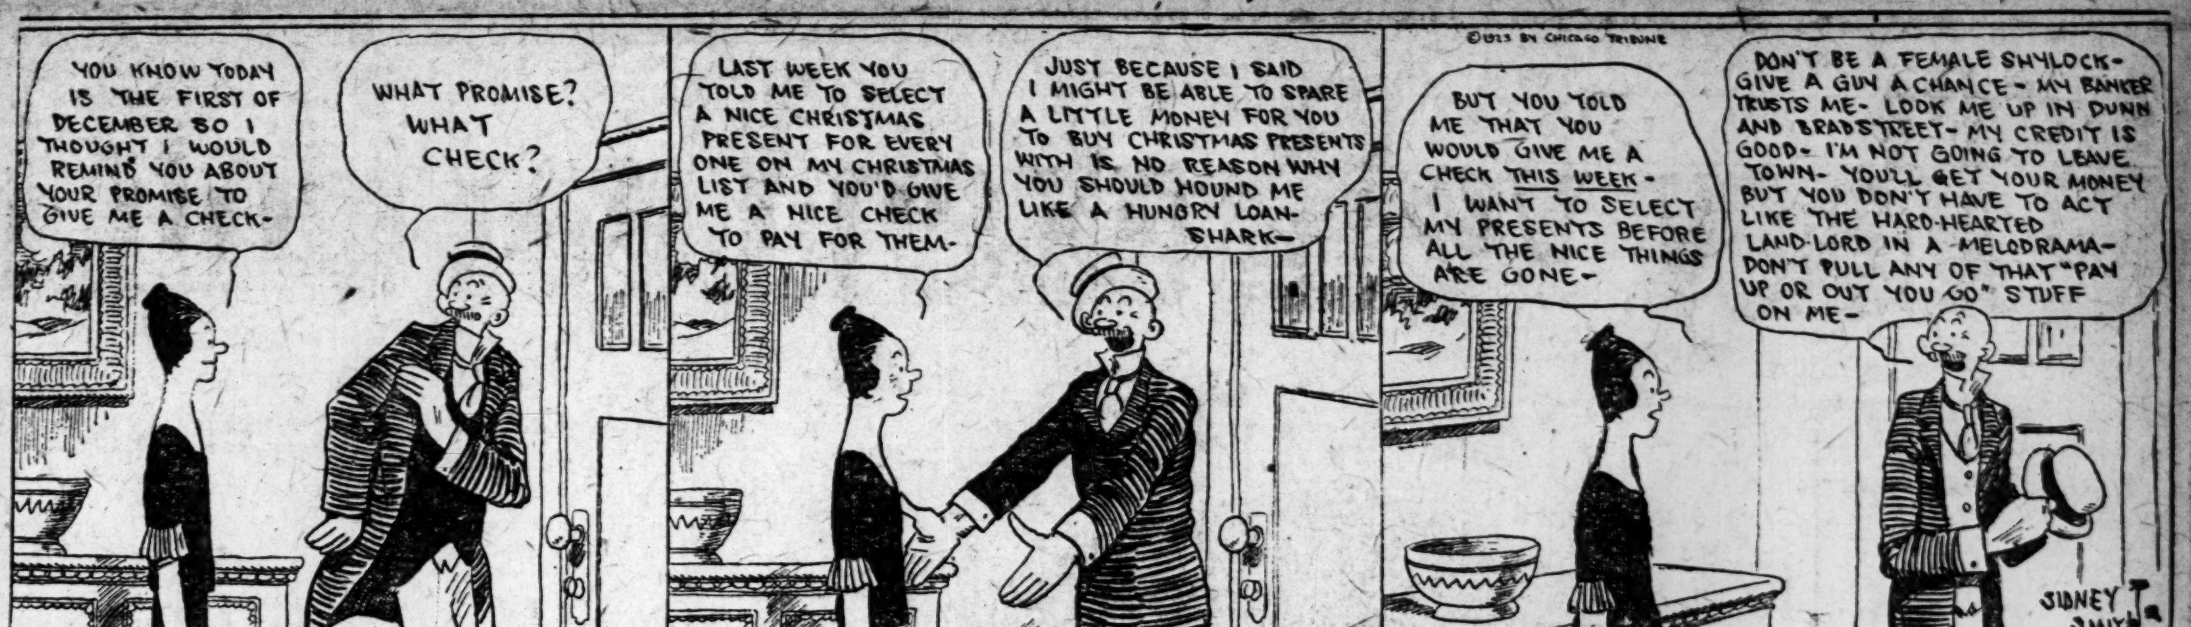

Joslin she saw frequently. His visits were quiet, unobtrusive, almost apologetic. He was very sad, and always taciturn, but she often looked toward to his coming with some longing to ask him, something to distract her.

"I feel so worthless here," she spoke out, suddenly to him one evening, as she sat in her chair, looking out across the blue hills of the valley below them. "It's time for me to go home, I suppose. But I don't think there ever was a woman so worthless in all the world, nor one so much alone in it. I don't want to go back, Granny Williams."

So sat Joslin, looking across the Narrows as they lay in the twilight. "Some day," he said slowly, after a time, "will you ride out with me, Mrs. Haddon, into these hills, with one of our women here? I'll show you things, ma'am, you never thought could exist in all the world."

"Do you know what I've been doing, ma'am?" he went on. "I mean since I came back here? At night, when I have time, I'm teaching school. He smiled at her with his wide, pleasant smile. "My first scholar, ma'am, is old Absalom Gannt. He's the man that killed my father—or made him kill himself. He's the leader of the Gannt faction. There's

DOUBLE TRACKING PROJECT REPORTED

Constitution Bureau.
T. J. Bryson, Mr. Phone 184.
Rome, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)—That the Southern railway is considering double-tracking its road from Atlanta to Rome and from Atlanta to Birmingham, with a view to putting Rome on the "main line" between Atlanta and Birmingham, is reported here today. The report comes from reliable sources. It is set out that the plan is being seriously considered by Southern railway officials. Recent announcement was made that plans were on foot to double-track the Atlanta-Chattanooga branch of the Southern. Reports from Atlanta now are to the effect that this is only partially true as the present plan is to double-track from Atlanta to Rome, and from Atlanta into Birmingham, routing the "Birmingham Special" and other through trains from the east to Birmingham by way of Rome and Atlanta.

The distance between Atlanta and Birmingham via Anniston, it is shown, is 168 miles. The distance via Rome and Atlanta is 201 miles, giving the Anniston route an advantage of 33 miles. The Anniston route is very crooked, however, it is shown, and would be much more expensive to double-track per mile than would the Rome route. Too, it is pointed out, double-tracking the Anniston route would serve to improve only the Atlanta-Birmingham service. On the other hand, if the improvements are made on the Rome-Atlanta and on the Atlanta-Birmingham sections, the service between Atlanta and Chattanooga and between Chattanooga and Birmingham will be bettered in addition to improving the Birmingham-Atlanta service.

Court Innovation.
Rome, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)—Judge John W. Bale, of the city court, will inaugurate an innovation in his court when the regular December term begins on Monday, in that he will try both criminal and civil cases during the same week. Heretofore the unvarying custom has been for the judge to hold court for criminal cases during enforced halts between civil trials and thus save considerable time. The term will last two weeks. Civil and criminal business will be tried the first week, but only criminal cases the second.

Detained by Death.
Rome, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)—Rev. Rembert G. Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, detained in Atlanta after the annual North Georgia conference by the desperate illness of a niece, was about to leave for Rome yesterday afternoon when the sudden death of his brother-in-law, Green Johnson, well known Monticello, Ga., attorney, again caused the postponement of his homecoming. Mr. Smith left for Atlanta this morning to attend Mr. Johnson's funeral.

Important Meet.
Rome, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)—The Floyd county farm bureau and the Floyd County Fair association will hold a special meeting tomorrow afternoon at the chamber of commerce when, it is announced, a number of matters of more than usual interest will come up. The meeting is for the fair association will be among the matters receiving attention.

MORE CONVICTED IN LIQUOR CASES

Savannah, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)—The government evidently has done its preparatory work well, judging from the regularity with which juries in federal court for the past week have been promptly convicting those arraigned on charges of conspiracy to violate the federal liquor laws. A conviction has resulted in every one of the cases to date, the last being today when Graham Baughn, an attorney for several years very active in his profession in the courts; J. H. Thomas, H. A. McInnis, M. N. Floyd, and Bill Mingo Bond, all were found guilty of conspiracy. Baughn and Thomas also were found guilty of smuggling. The latter feature is the first instance in which the smuggling element has entered into the verdict. Judge Barrett deferred sentencing the defendants until next Monday.

He will have a larger class to pass sentence upon than even the enforcement agents estimated would be the case when they began their fight on violators along the new lines this series of cases has revealed. R. A. Bailey, C. C. Tuten and others were on trial for conspiracy charges Monday. It is said that practically all the big fellows of the traffic, the alleged "big fish" in the sea, have already been tried and convicted or are under bond for trial. To date, since the convictions of last Saturday night, twenty-one have been found guilty of conspiracy, three have pleaded guilty, and two now are awaiting sentence for smuggling to the United States. Every inch of the coast has been scoured, and liquor, concealed in and distributed in broadcast over the eastern half of the United States. South Wants Duty Kept on Peanuts
Chattanooga, Tenn., November 30.—(Special.)—Tariff on vegetable oil has increased value of the cottonseed oil crop of the southern states $200,000,000, according to officials of the Southern Tariff Congress which meets here December 1. The tariff on vegetable oil, which is based on an estimated crop of 610,000 bales, Georgia farmers will see $12,000,000 more in their pockets as a result of tariff on vegetable oil, officials said. Schedule now is $1.50 per barrel, but the tariff commission and if the commission decides to place vegetable oils on free list, the southern farmer will suffer a period of deflation worse than that which followed the world war, officials said. Placing of peanuts and other vegetable oils on a dutiable list caused many southern farmers who had previously planted only cotton to turn to peanuts and approximately 1,500,000 acres were planted to this product because of this protection, officials said. When the average of the cotton crop was reduced by heavy planting of peanuts, the volume of production of the cotton crop dropped, which also aided in boosting prices of the cotton crop.

SON OF BALDWIN HITS GOVERNMENT

London, November 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—Oliver Baldwin and A. G. MacDonald, respectively, sons of Premier Baldwin and James Ramsay MacDonald, the labor leader in parliament, appeared on the same platform at an election meeting held in London tonight to support the labor candidate for the Islington district. The chairman of the meeting addressed Mr. Baldwin as "cousin" and Mr. MacDonald as "the son of the future prime minister." Mr. Baldwin in his address repeated his previous attack on the government his father had made, particularly with regard to what he termed its inaction. He asserted that he was not opposing his father but was opposing principles which would lead nowhere. The government had fulfilled none of the promises made during the war and he had looked in vain in the manifesto of the Tory and liberal parties with-out finding in them any intention of dealing with the difficult conditions under which the poor were living in London. That was why he was supporting the labor party.

Irene and Her Third Husband Rush Into Hiding

Chicago, November 30.—Irene Castle, who, with her husband Vernon Castle, tangoed and turkey-trotted her way to international dancing prominence, and Frederic McLaughlin, wealthy Chicago society man and coffee merchant, were married at the McLaughlin residence on Michigan avenue here Wednesday night and are now somewhere in the west on a three months' honeymoon, it was announced today.

Chicago society was frankly surprised by the news of the wedding, which was witnessed by only six friends of the contracting parties, according to Mr. McLaughlin's private secretary. Who these friends were, who the minister was and what religious denomination he represented, where the bride and bridegroom were honeymooning and other information the secretary either "didn't know" or "couldn't remember."

TO LIVE IN CHICAGO

He admitted that Mr. McLaughlin had known his bride for several years and said they would "make their permanent residence in Chicago." According to Mr. McLaughlin's private secretary, who these friends were, who the minister was and what religious denomination he represented, where the bride and bridegroom were honeymooning and other information the secretary either "didn't know" or "couldn't remember."

About two years ago when society, after seeing so many of Cupid's arrows fail of their mark, had decided that Major McLaughlin would not remain, he strengthened the belief by remodeling a coffee warehouse on Michigan avenue into a bachelor apartment, having the window frames painted bright orange, the building white, and placing gay-colored awnings over the entrance. Mr. McLaughlin has gained considerable attention throughout the country as a polo player and horseman and is also known as a good golfer and is prominent in other sports.

Wanted Man-Size Job

Several years ago he surprised society by declaring he wanted a man-size job and decided that he would be the ward of Joliet penitentiary. Efforts were reported to have been made to induce former Governor Duane to accept the position.

At one time he was reported engaged to Countess Elinor Patterson Glyck, but he characterized the reports as "baloney." He is the son of W. F. McLaughlin, pioneer coffee merchant. His brother, George McLaughlin, succeeded his father as head of the coffee business.

Irene Castle, as the wife of Vernon Castle, who was killed in a training camp in France way back in 1918, came to America and Europe and introduced many of the most popular dances of a few years ago. She also is a well known social figure and has been married to her third husband, Robert Treman, of Idaho, in Paris last July, returning shortly afterwards to this country.
